

Selecting the right car for a restoration project is an exciting task but not always an easy one. It is important to start out with a car in the best condition as possible. If you have already obtained your car then the choice is already made and you'll have to do with whatever you have. If you haven't yet purchased your project car, here are a few tips:

What kind of car do I want?
How do I locate my car?
Are parts readily available?
Cost of restoration?
What will it be worth?
How do I inspect it?
Can I afford the car I want?
What paper-work is required?
How do I get it home?

For complete in-depth direction for making these decisions, read the 9-page "Step 2" in Kaiser Bill's new Book "40 Steps to a Successful Restoration."
